Roundtable Copyright in the Digital Single Market

On Wednesday 4 December at 9am, we organize a roundtable on the “Copyright in the Digital Single Market”. This is a unique initiative within the context of the Jean Monnet Intellectual Property in the Digital Single Market Course. It is open to all university students, staff and the general public.

The objective is to foster discussion on a societally relevant and controversial topic, namely how digital works can and should be protected through copyright. We aim at generating ideas, filtering out the best and discussing ways to implement them.

The format of the roundtable is informal, taking the shape of a debate where participants come together to reach a solution, in a dialogue with each other and the audience. Our panelists consist of 4 bachelor students (3rd year) from the course Intellectual Property and the Digital Single Market, Dr. Stef van Gompel and Camille Auvret. Prof. Kamperman Sanders will be chairing the roundtable. Please join us in the Law Faculty, room B1.1113 (Feestzaal).

Profile of the speakers

Speakers

Stef van Gompel is associate professor at the Institute for Information Law (IViR) and director of the Glushko & Samuelson Information Law and Policy Lab. In 2011 he received his doctorate from the University of Amsterdam.
